Emily, making up little games for children whose manners are sloppy and maybe someday instead of sitting with the kids you'll be able to eat with your grownups. Did you ever get your daddy to run in the barn time Sandy won't run. Maybe your friend Heidi

Don't think right grade or any other grade that you'll be in. I loved that plus dress that you had on. I wish I had it to wear. I'm made for that Rayana I'm cringing from an awful lot, I love you so best friends. I love your singing and it's true
I feel like I have to write a thousand more words but I don't have time. You're a nice girl.

"With the Lord one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day"

(2 Peter, 3:8)

A dawn, a breeze, a sunset, and the darkness carries another dawn. Each day, a gift which brings an even greater treasure — tomorrow. A continuous chain, never halted or severed, reaching into the past as far as man can remember, and advancing faster than any man's imagination. One road, one way — eternity to man, a split second to God.

This yearbook has been given to time, to share in a part of that chain of timelessness, and to hold still for a moment a portion of the time which was yours and ours.

FACULTY

Congratulations to the Class of '74"

During my tenure, you have completed the educational programs supported by the School District and experienced the many changes that have occurred during this time.

Best wishes to you as you continue to adjust and change to meet your educational and vocational goals.

May each of you experience success in your efforts to constructively contribute to society.

Z. M. Musial

Undoubtedly you have been anxiously awaiting the culmination of your high school careers. Although it may seem to have been a long time, I am certain that future retrospect will tend to negate these present thoughts. As you progress through life, you will find that some of your happiest times were those that you spent in high school, and, although you have been relieved of the pressures of school, the pressures of life will keep you occupied as "time marches on."

I offer my congratulations to you both as a class and individuals for the contributions you have made toward a successful school year.

As time permits, feel free to return to your Alma Mater to greet old friends and rekindle fond memories that have found a place in your heart.

Luck and success in your future endeavors.

The clock of life is wound but once,
 And no man hath the power
 To tell just when the hands will stop —
 At late or early hour.
 Now is the time we live, love,
 And toil with a will.
 Place no faith in tomorrow,
 For the hands may then be still.
